Auditor Etiquette

To audit means to listen. The extent of participation in classroom discussion will be established by the individual instructor. The interests of the tuition-paying students must remain primary; interference by enthusiastic auditors is disruptive.

Auditors are asked to sit behind the students enrolled for credit; the instructor expects to see and be able to call on these students.

Please do not invite or encourage guests to attend classes with you.

On the special Registration Day you can register in Rooms 132B and 132C in the Student Support Services Building on the Boca Raton campus. To attend classes on other campuses you must go to the Registration Office of that campus to register on the special Registration Day.
