Course Description (Syllabus must be attached; Syllabus Checklist recommended; see Guidelines)

In this course students are introduced the topics of professionalism in medical practice, as well as to bioethics as an interdisciplinary subject. Students will be provided with the opportunity to study, evaluate and discuss defining issues in the field of bioethics, and begin to develop an understanding of the professional practice of medicine. These competencies will support the students in their academic careers as well as in the field of medicine beyond.
