Course Description

What role does religion play in national identity formation, democratization or lack of it in the Middle East? Can religion serve as source of conflict or can it be a positive force for political development? What explains different situations in Turkey, Iran, Egypt, and Saudi Arabia, four key Muslim majority countries? Can Israel, as the only non-Muslim democracy in the region, serve as a role model for reconciling religion with democracy? What are the prospects for a religious reformation within Islam?

Instructional Method

This class is designated as a synchronous in person class and is scheduled to take place at a set time (one)two time(s) each week. Students are expected to attend classes during the scheduled time in order to be awarded full attendance points. Attendance may be in person in the designated classroom (instructions are in Canvas) or may be remote at a location of the student's choosing.

Prerequisites/Corequisites: None

Course Objectives/Student Learning Outcomes

COVID-19 Statement

All students in face-to-face classes are required to wear masks during class, and students must sanitize their own workstations upon entering the classroom. Taking these measures supports the safety and protection of the FAU community. Students who do not adhere to these rules will be asked to leave the classroom and/or be removed from the course. Students experiencing flu-like symptoms (fever, cough, shortness of breath), or students who have come in contact with an infected person should immediately contact FAU Student Health Services (561-297-3512).

This course is designed to give you an overview of the roles religion has played in state and nation building processes in the Middle East. We will review the interplay between religion and politics in Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Turkey, Iran, and Israel.

Course Evaluation Method

Examinations: We will have two examinations in class, a mid-term (30% of your total grade) and a final (40% of your total grade). Both exams will consist of multiple-choice as well as essay questions. Failure to complete an exam on time will result in an automatic zero.

Participation: Students are expected to arrive for each class prepared to discuss the assigned reading material. You are expected to be attentive to class lectures, participate in class discussions and exercises, respect the views and work of classmates, and refrain from all disruptive behavior (including the use of cellular telephones and laptop computers for anything other than class notes). Lectures and other class materials are designed to clarify and expand on class readings, expecting you have read and developed a general understanding of the topics addressed in the readings. You will be rewarded for your constructive contribution to the discussion. Participation is worth 30% of your total grade.

Course Grading Scale

The student's final course grade is broken down as follows: Midterm Exam 30%; Final Exam 40%; Participation 30%.

Grading Scale: A 93-100; A- 90-92; B+ 87-89; B 83-86; B- 80-82; C+ 77-79; C 73-76; C- 70-72; D+ 67-69; D 63-66; D- 60-62; F 0-59.

Policy on Makeup Tests, Late Work, and Incompletes

*All students are expected to take the midterm and take the final exam on the dates fixed in the syllabus.

*In order to receive a passing grade in the course, students must complete all of the requirements for the course.

*Exceptions to the above rules are granted at the instructor's discretion, normally by prior approval, and only under circumstances of extreme personal emergency or serious illness. In all instances, appropriate evidentiary documentation may be requested to waive course rules.

*I take academic dishonesty very seriously. Students are bound by University rules governing conduct and performance, particularly to questions of cheating and plagiarism.

*Chronic absences will be taken into account in reaching a decision on a final grade for students.

*All students are expected to complete all assigned readings before they are discussed in class and they are expected to discuss and respond to random questioning by the instructor.

*I do not give extra -credit or other compensatory assignments. Please do not ask.

*The reading and course schedule is subject to change. Students are responsible for making sure that they are aware of any changes.

*Disruptive behavior is not tolerated. Cell phones and pagers must be turned off during the class.

Special Course Requirements (if applicable): N/A

Classroom Etiquette Policy

Netiquette: Due to the casual communication common in the online environment, students are sometimes tempted to relax their grammar, spelling, and/or professionalism. Please remember that you are adult students and professionals—your communication should be appropriate. For more in-depth information, please see the FAU statement on netiquette.

Classroom Etiquette/Disruptive Behavior Policy Statement: Disruptive behavior is defined in the FAU Student Code of Conduct as “... activities which interfere with the educational mission within classroom.” Students who disrupt the educational experiences of other students and/or the instructor’s course objectives in a face-to-face or online course are subject to disciplinary action. Such behavior impedes students’ ability to learn or an instructor’s ability to teach. Disruptive behavior may include but is not limited to non-approved use of electronic devices (including cellular telephones); cursing or shouting at others in such a way as to be disruptive; or, other violations of an instructor’s expectations for classroom conduct. For more information, please see the FAU Office of Student Conduct.

The course promotes interactive class discussion. Toward this end, students are expected to read assignments and participate in the discussion of designated readings offered each session. The readings listed for each week should be read BEFORE that week in order to maximize discussion opportunities. Further, classes will NOT be recorded without prior notice to ensure an environment of open dialog. Students may NOT record lectures, discussions, or other meetings without the express consent of the instructor.

It is expected that students will treat each other with the utmost respect. In order to enhance and maintain a productive atmosphere for education, personal communication devices, such as cellular telephones and pagers, are to be disabled in class sessions.

Electronic Communication Policy: In addition to the University’s policy, please consider the following:

- Privacy, confidentiality, and security in all electronic communications.
- All electronic communication resources must be used for the course and in alignment with to the University mission.
- Prohibited use of false identity, false identity pseudonyms, or anonymous (sender’s name or electronic identification is hidden).
- Access without consent.
- Disruption of services including introducing computer contaminants (viruses).
- Harassment of any kind.

Please see the Office of Information Technology’s policies on Cyber Security Awareness.

Attendance Policy

Students are expected to attend all of their scheduled University classes and to satisfy all academic objectives as outlined by the instructor. The effect of absences upon grades is determined by the instructor, and the University reserves the right to deal at any time with individual cases of non-attendance. Students are responsible for arranging to make up work missed because of legitimate class absence, such as illness, family emergencies, military obligation, court-imposed legal obligations or participation in University-approved activities. Examples of University-approved reasons for absences include participating on an athletic or scholastic team, musical and theatrical performances and debate activities. It is the student’s responsibility to give the instructor notice prior to any anticipated absences and within a reasonable amount of time after an unanticipated absence, ordinarily by the next scheduled class meeting. Instructors must allow each student who is absent for a University-approved reason the opportunity to make up work missed without any reduction in the student’s final course grade as a direct result of such absence.

A student who misses a lecture is solely responsible to find out about all announcements made during that lecture, including but not limited to possible changes made to this syllabus.

Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS) Center

Life as a university student can be challenging physically, mentally and emotionally. Students who find stress negatively affecting their ability to achieve academic or personal goals may wish to consider utilizing FAU's Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS) Center. CAPS provides FAU students a range of services – individual counseling, support meetings, and psychiatric services, to name a few – offered to help improve and maintain emotional well-being. For more information, go to <http://www.fau.edu/counseling/>

Disability Policy

In compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act Amendments Act (ADAAA), students who require reasonable accommodations due to a disability to properly execute coursework must register with Student Accessibility Services (SAS) and follow all SAS procedures. SAS has offices across three of FAU's campuses – Boca Raton, Davie and Jupiter – however disability services are available for students on all campuses. For more information, please visit the SAS website at www.fau.edu/sas/.

Code of Academic Integrity

Students at Florida Atlantic University are expected to maintain the highest ethical standards. Academic dishonesty is considered a serious breach of these ethical standards, because it interferes with the university mission to provide a high quality education in which no student enjoys an unfair advantage over any other. Academic dishonesty is also destructive of the university community, which is grounded in a system of mutual trust and places high value on personal integrity and individual responsibility. Harsh penalties are associated with academic dishonesty. For more information, see University Regulation 4.001.

Course Policy Changes and Amendments

Amendments to assignments, grading policies, or any other course policy may be changed based upon the class performance. Any such changes will be announced in class and students are responsible for those changes.
