Colleagues,

The Department of Educational Leadership and Research Methodology is proposing the creation of a Directed Independent Research (DIR) course. By providing undergraduate students a DIR option as an alternative to Directed Independent Study (DIS), it provides a mechanism for undergraduate research documentation on student transcripts, as well as a means for the tracking of undergraduate research activities in departments and the college. Departments may also include a zero-credit option for DIR students (which we have opted to do), which would have no additional tuition charge for their research volunteering/training. For more information, please see this website and scroll down to the DIR section: https://www.fau.edu/our/RI_designation.php

Please get back to me regarding any conflicts with your department. We would like to submit this request to the College Undergraduate Programs Committee as soon as possible. Please note that because this is a DIR a syllabus is not needed for submission. Thanks. Bob

No CSD conflicts.

I don't see any overlap or conflict with the courses or curriculum in the ESE Department.

Good luck!
