

Limitation on Repeated Courses

No course may be repeated more than twice, whether at FAU or at any other institution, without the permission of the student's advising office: University Advising Services, in the case of students with 45 or fewer completed credit hours; the college advising office, for those students with greater than 45 completed credit hours; or the Honors College Academic Support Services office, for students at the Harriet L. Wilkes Honors College. To receive permission, the student must explain in writing the reasons for the poor academic performance in past attempts and include a plan for success in the course on the next attempt.
